

The chart displays two data series over time. The 'Predicted (validation)' series is a solid blue line that remains relatively flat and high throughout the entire period. The 'Actual Timeseries' series is a solid dark blue line that starts at a lower level than the predicted series and shows a general downward trend with some minor fluctuations, ending at the lowest point in the chart.

